WHAT ROBERT L. OWEN AND HIS COMPATRIOTS HAVE DONE

That the Democratic party has fulfilled its promise to the people can be readily seen by comparing the following enactments with the Democratic platform of eight and four years ago.

- Under the leadership of such men as Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma and other Democratic senators and representatives, the following list of constructive legislation has been accomplished:
- Established the income tax.
- Creation of the Federal Trade Commission.
- Child labor legislation.
- Rural credits act.
- Farm loan banks.
- Smith-Lever bill for improvement of agricultural conditions.
- Creation of Department of Labor in the cabinet.
- Establishment of the Federal Reserve system.
- Winning the war under the most adverse conditions.

Can any man of reason read over this list without being proud that he is living in a Democratic country and can any Democrat read of these enactments by his party without being proud he or she is a Democrat and helped make these steps possible.

With Robert L. Owen as president these progressive steps will continue.

Kindly take a glance at the people who say "It can't be done." Take a second look and search your brain and you will be unable to remember anything they ever did. An insular watching a number of patriotic men lower and raise the city flag on Sunday morning said "It couldn't be done." It was done, however, and the stranger went on his way.

An editorial in the Courier of ten years ago said "Columbus has a park site."

It had, had it. Well ten years later it hasn't got a park site by some other kind of a site.

If "Bill" Doonan brings in oil at the Valley well the Daily Courier will print his name, and his children's and his children's children's names in all the columns of the run-down on the first column, first page.

"The Gap" is composed of ten square miles of the finest farm land in America and portions of it may be purchased for a song compared with other land which will not produce half as much.

You never realize how elastic the truth is until the gossip gets busy. Are there gamblers in Columbus? There are, and in every other city, for that matter.

Harding and Coolidge—average names even to the faithful who generally know the pedigree of every one in the field.

Who's Harding? Who's Coolidge? Questions asked by eight out of ten people.

One thing is the result of Harding and Coolidge—they did not climb with a $100,000 pocket.

The latest piece in the Republican platform made a million Democrats in a day.

Stick Slasher Can't Pass Near Window, Arizona

PHOENIX, June 14.—Over-taking three automobiles, one of which was believed to be carrying the famous Cleveland Dargoff, escaped death yesterday, officers of Window, Arizona, said today.

According to word received here by Arthur Grier, post commander of the First Division post of the American Legion, says the Dargoff International, a film camera is being offered by the American Legion, in addition to many other rewards offered by the government for information leading to the arrest and apprehension of Greater Cleveland Dargoff, millimetric Philadelphia draft evader and escaped convict, who was arrested in his home in Philadelphia when his mother tried to prevent his capture by holding the officers at the point of a revolver.

Following is a short account of Dargoff's career before and after his arrest and conviction and his escape:

Dargoff is the son of a German brewer, who died leaving a large fortune. In 1918 he offered his services to Germany as an aviator through the German consul in Philadelphia. Not receiving a reply to his offer, which was at the time the United States declared war on Germany, he stated he would never fight against Germany.

He registered under the draft act but failed to appear for examination on August 8, 1918. His brother Edwin following the same course. For more than two years Dargoff lived the shadow in an automobile, narrowly escaping capture several times. On January 7, 1920, Dargoff was captured in his home after his mother attempted to resist officers with a loaded revolver. He was tried by court-martial on charges of desertion and sentenced to five years at hard labor in Castle William, Governor's Island.

With permission granted by the adjutant general to seek $100,000 he said he had buried under a hill near his home. Dargoff, accompanied by two guards, left for the supposed burying spot. He remained overnight at his home in Philadelphia, one of his guards sleeping with him. The following afternoon, on pretext of going into the next room to answer the telephone, he quietly slipped out the back door, where his chauffeur was waiting for him in an automobile.

"Blind Man's Eyes" at Onyx Theater Tonight

Hugh Overton, otherwise known as Philip Eaton, has but one object in life—that of clearing his name from the stigma of murder. Sealed in a Pullman sleeper, he recalls the day when he was convicted for the slaying of Matthew Latrobe. Inside the body, in damning evidence, lay Overton's lie. By a strange decree of fate, three people sat across the aisle from him who were to play an important part in his destiny. They were Matt Santone, the celebrated lawyer in Chicago, notwithstanding his blindness, Harriet, his daughter, known as "The Blind Man's Eyes," and Donald Avery, Latrobe's secretary. Latrobe is still alive and living in seclusion. Avery mistakes the berth in which Matt Santone is asleep and Santone, not the young man, receives the murderous blow. When brought before him the uneasy manner of the young man arouses the suspicion of Santone, but he resolves to be sure before he actually accuses Hugh. To do this he decides to take Hugh to his home and watch him closely. This planer Hugh as he has been mysteriously advised that paper in Matt Santone's possession will clear him of all implication in the murder. Before long Hugh finds that he loves Harriet. He can not tell her of this affection, however, until he has completely cleared his name. Latrobe, still determined to keep Hugh from knowing true facts, resolves to go himself to the home of the lawyer and obtain the incriminating papers. Just as he is about to leave with the papers Hugh enters the room and there is a furious fight. In the scuffle a revolver explodes and Latrobe is mortally wounded. The blind lawyer, hearing the shot, comes into the room. Explanations follow. Al has vindicated his name. He has Harriet who promptly accepts him.

The Hamilton government has taken exclusive control over all wireless telegraph and telephone services in that country.

Revised laws have been passed for an electric car which has been called and a magnet in the back to supply current.

Patron in Trouble Over Mortgaged Car Out of State

A. V. Malone, a patron of the hotel, is alleged to have been making an attempt to obtain a mortgage on a car belonging to Harry Lester, and was arrested at Columbus and brought back to Columbus and lodged in the county jail. Malone claims that Lester requested permission to take the car to his home in the state of Ohio, but when permission was refused he attempted to take the car away.

In the meantime when Malone, having failed to obtain a mortgage on the car, it was discovered the car had been taken away and Malone was taken to the county jail. Malone was taken to the county jail on the charge of attempting to remove property from the state without permission and without authority. George Eaton, an attorney was made to prove that the car had no lien against the defendant, and a motion was made to have the affidavit admitted. But the motion was overruled and the defendant was under $1000 bond pending the meeting of the grand jury—Monday, Monday.

Tros Hormones District Has Promising Ores in Sight

James P. Porteus, general manager and engineer of the Tros Hormones district, was in the Tros Hormones district this week, making an examination of the Tros Hormones company.

No Need of Getting Shoes Half a Size Too Large as so many ladies do—because they don't pay enough attention to the fit of the stockings. You can always get the "happy medium" of a comfortably snug fit—no waste room in the toes or heels, or about the ankles—no wrinkles to hurt and look ugly.

There's a star in ARMOR PLATE Hosiery that is probably your size. They're made just right and perfect in the shape. They'll neither stretch nor pull, nor wear out, and they'll keep you warm and cozy all winter long.

THE BAZAAR

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

March 3, 1938, the Ford Motor Company advanced the price of Ford cars because of the increased cost of production. As specific announcement was not made at the time, and it has developed that intergovernmental and negotiations of these advanced prices have been and are being given out, so to safeguard the public against the evils of misrepresentation, we herewith give the present prices:
